THE IMPOSSIBLE
DREAM OF 1967
HAD REVIVED THE RED SOX IN

BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND.

BUT BY THE END OF THE 1974 SEASON, THE EUPHORIA HAD BEGUN TO WEAR THIN. THE RED SOX HAD A WINNING RECORD EVERY YEAR AND FINISHED AS LOW AS FOURTH ONLY ONCE. BUT ATTENDANCE, WHICH HAD BEEN ONLY 811,000 THE SUMMER PRIOR TO that miracle pennant, and then been above 1.5 million every year until 1972-73, was slipping.

By late August of 1974, the Red Sox appeared to be a cinch to win the American League East Division title. Luis Tiant had won his 20th game on Aug. 23, and the Red Sox led the division by seven games with just 35 to play. The fans were coming back, and attendance would climb above the 1.5 million mark again at Fenway, but the Red Sox went into a mysterious hitting slump over the final six weeks of the season and wound up third, seven games behind the Orioles and Yankees, an incredible 14-game swing in the standings.

So fans were both bitter and skeptical as the 1975 season approached. They had a couple of promising rookie outfielders in Jim Rice and Fred Lynn. But Rice, who had won the International League Triple Crown at Pawtucket in 1974, had been somewhat of an enigma after being called up on Aug. 19. Rice hit only .269 in 24 games and did not hit his first major league homer until the next-to-last game of the season on Oct. 1. Lynn had hit .419 in a September call-up but was less than two years out of USC, and no one was sure he would even stick with the Red Sox in '75.

As the baseball world quickly found out, however, Rice and Lynn were genuine superstars. One was black and the other white, but both were 24K gold. They would form one of the most dynamic rookie duos in baseball history, and by the end of October, they would not only revive interest in the Red Sox, but rekindle national interest in baseball as well.

Still, when the Red Sox broke spring training in 1975, Manager Darrell Johnson's club didn't look much like contenders, much less champions. They had

The ever durable Yaz.

The Red Sox have had more players with individual career records than any other team.

No wonder they've chosen a leader to be their bank.

At Shawmut, we've become a leader by making it a point to understand our customers' needs. Because only then can we offer the right products and services to help them reach their financial goals. gone a miserable 11-20 in exhibition games, and All-Star catcher Carlton Fisk was back on the disabled list again. Fisk's knee had been shattered in a home-plate collision with Cleveland's Leron Lee the previous June, an injury so serious it threatened to end his career at the age of 26, and six games into his spring training comeback, his arm was broken by a pitch thrown by Detroit's Fred Holdsworth on March 12.

Lynn hit only .235 in the Grapefruit League, and Rice hit a limp .161 with no homers and five RBI in 62 at-bats. The lone encouraging sign had been the pitching of Rick Wise, who had come over from the St. Louis Cardinals in the Reggie Smith trade before the 1974 season only to hurt his shoulder in his first Red Sox start in rainy, 38-degree weather. Wise had made only nine starts and pitched just 49 innings for the Red Sox in 1974, none after Aug. 2. But he had allowed just 20 hits and no homers in 25 spring innings while compiling a 2.52 ERA.

The "Loo-ie, Loo-ie" chant would soon be heard at Fenway.

When the Red Sox opened the season at Fenway Park on April 8, an SRO crowd of 34,019 was on hand to cheer the return of local hero Tony Conigliaro, who was attempting his second comeback from a serious beaming in 1967 that had left him nearly blind in his left eye.

Tony C., the 2nd youngest player in history to hit 100 major league homers, had missed the entire 1968 season as he recovered from his injury, then made a successful comeback in 1969 by hitting .255 with 20 homers and 82 RBI for the Red Sox. He had followed that up with his best major league season in 1970, hitting .266 with 36 homers and 116 RBI. Then, after being traded to the California Angels, his vision began to blur again, and midway through the 1971 season, he had to call it quits.

But as his vision gradually returned during the ensuing two-and-a-half years, Tony C. decided to give baseball one last try. The Red Sox invited him to spring training as a non-roster player, and Conigliaro, now 30, made the club. The adoring Fenway crowd gave him a standing ovation before his first at-bat as the Red Sox DH, and a woman ran down from the grandstand to throw a bouquet of long-stemmed red roses onto the diamond. Tony C. responded by singling off Milwaukee's Jim Slaton, then engineering a double steal as Carl Yastrzewski scored the first run of the season. Luis Tiant tossed an eight-hitter as the Red Sox beat the Brewers 5-2.

Reality returned the following day. A small turnout of 7,643 watched the Red Sox lose to the Brewers 7-4.

In Baltimore on April 11, Rice made his first appearance of the year, playing left field, and singled and tripled. Conigliaro clouted the first Red Sox homer of the season in the fifth inning off Mike Cuellar, and Rick Burleson's homer in the eighth off Doyle Alexander tied the game at 5-5 and sent it into extra innings. In the bottom of the 11th, Bob Montgomery, who had taken over behind the plate for the injured Fisk, kept the Orioles off the scoreboard by throwing out Paul Blair trying to steal second, moments before an Al Bumbry single probably would have won it. Yaz then belted a one-out homer off Alexander in the top of the 12th to win it 6-5.

The following day Dwight Evans' one-out homer in the ninth off Ross Grimsley tied the game at 2-2 and sent that one into extra innings. The Red Sox won it in the 13th when Montgomery walked, pinch runner Rick Miller was sacrificed to second by Rice, and Doug Griffin singled off Jesse Jefferson. Reggie Cleveland pitched 12 innings for the 3-2 win.

On April 16 the Red Sox made their first visit of the season to Shea Stadium, Continued on Page 47

KEVIN KENNEDY

By John Hinds

KEVIN CURTIS KENNEDY HAS THE ONE JOB EVERYONE IN NEW ENGLAND THINKS THEY CAN DO, BUT NO ONE IN THE PAST 76 YEARS HAS BEEN ABLE TO DO SUCCESSFULLY. AT 40 YEARS OF AGE, HE IS THE 40TH MANAGER OF THE BOSTON RED SOX.

Through 76 years and 31 different managers, the Red Sox and their multitude of fans are waiting for the man who can deliver a world championship. Kennedy may just be that man. Born on May 26, 1954, he was raised a Dodgers fan in Canoga Park, a suburb of Los Angeles. His parents, Will and Grace, worked hard to take care of Kevin and his sister, Emily, but when he was 15, his parents divorced. The love for the game of baseball came when he was eight years old. "I saw a friend of mine hit a triple in a Little League game, and it looked like fun." From that moment on, he was hooked by baseball. He took up the sport shortly after seeing his friend's feat and played Little League, Babe Ruth and American Legion ball.

At 5'4" and 125 pounds, he didn't look like an athlete when he entered Taft High School in Woodland Hills, a section of Los Angeles. But by the time he graduated, he was a standout in both basketball and baseball. In fact he was chosen to the second team All-Los Angeles city team in his senior year.

It wasn't Kevin but teammate, and future Hall of Famer, Robin Yount, whom the scouts coveted at Taft. So San Diego State was his next stop. While catching and playing first base there he developed into not only a baseball player but also a man. At the end of his junior year, he was 6'3", 200 pounds and led the Pacific Coast Athletic Association with a .416 batting average.

That was enough to convince the Baltimore Orioles to select him in the eighth round of the June 1976 free agent draft. It took Kevin a year and a half to make the jump from the Rookie League to Triple A in the Orioles organization.

But he never made it to the major leagues as a player.

His best year in the minors was 1978 when he hit .254 with four home runs and 58 RBI and was the catcher on the International League All-Star team.

Although he was invited to spring training each of the six years he was in the Orioles organization, he got sent back down because Rick Dempsey was not going to be unseated as the Orioles catcher.

"It was disappointing to be in that position, but I learned a lot in the minor leagues. One of my greatest teachers was Frank Robinson, and he taught me how to be a pro."

One year in the St. Louis Cardinals organization and two years in the Los Angeles Dodgers organization taught Kevin that he was not going to make it to the big leagues as a player.

In 1982, Del Crandall, manager of the Dodgers Triple A franchise in Albuquerque, convinced Kevin that his future in baseball was as a coach. "I knew that if I was going to take that route it was only going to be in the Dodgers organization."

In 1984, at the tender age of 29, he became manager of the Great Falls team in the Pioneer League. Two of the three years he managed that team he took them to the championship series.

His next stop as a manager was 1987 when he was skipper of Bakersfield in the California League. The following season he was promoted to San Antonio of the Texas League. Finally in 1989, he became a manager in the Triple A Pacific Coast League with his old team, the Albuquerque Dukes. While managing them he went to two championship series, and in 1990, his team captured the Pacific Coast League title when they swept Edmonton in a three-game series.

In his eight seasons as a manager in the Dodgers organization, he won one outright championship, had five teams finish in first place in either the first or second half of the season, and one of his teams finished worse than second in any season. He had the best record of any manager in each of his three seasons in the Pacific Coast League and was named the League's and Baseball America's Minor League Manager of the Year for 1990.

"The system that I learned with the Orioles and the Dodgers works. The players are on time, they play hard, and they all bust their tails every time they are on the field," Kennedy said.

He made his debut in the major leagues with a job in 1991 as the Montreal Expos Director of Minor League Field Operations. It was there that he and Red Sox Executive Vice President and General Manager Dan Duquette met.

In 1992 he became dugout coach for Felipe Alou, and together they took the Expos to a second-place finish in the National League's Eastern Division.

It took a move to another country and nine years experience as a manager or coach, but in 1993, Kevin was given the job as manager of the Texas Rangers.

"We had a high maintenance team in Texas. But the team had tremendous experience with guys like Nolan Ryan, Rafael Palmeiro, Jose Canseco and Ivan Rodriguez. I think it helped that I got along well with the Latin players from having managed in winter ball in Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic. But it also helped because I had a reputation for getting along with tough guys," said Kennedy.

In his first year as a manager in the major leagues, his team won 86 games.

Not only was it the fourth most victories in team history, but it was the most wins by a Rangers manager in his first season.

But the 1993 season will always be remembered for the afternoon in May when Kennedy put Canseco on the mound, and Jose blew out his arm. Now that they are both members of the Red Sox, Kevin says that won't happen again.

During the strike-shortened 1994 season, Kennedy led the Rangers to a first-place finish in the American League's Western Division.

Doug Melvin was hired from the Orioles in October to be the general manager of the Rangers, and he brought in Johnny Oates as his manager. On October 18, 1994, six days after being let go by Texas, Kennedy was signed as the Red Sox manager.

What can we expect of him? Between the white lines, it is all business for him. He is confident and aggressive and expects his players to take that approach. "I like to make things happen. I like to put people in position to score, and I like to run and hit, not hit and run."

Finally he has a very straightforward philosophy. "We want everybody in the organization doing things the same way. We want to build on that. This is what I do best."

THE KID'S DOING GREAT:

Museum Dedication Signals Return to Health for Ted Williams

First of Two Parts

by Andy Esposito

THE FIRST THINGS YOU NOTICE ARE THE BILLBOARDS. THEY PICTURE A MAN GIVING A FRIENDLY HUG TO ONE OF MAN'S BEST FRIENDS, A DALMATIAN THAT ANSWERS TO THE NAME OF "SLUGGER." THE ROADSIDE

ads beckon you to a serene Floridian community where the living is easy and the fish are biting. That's important, because the man on the sign is no stranger to the ways of aquatic creatures (and no stranger to this ballpark, either), one Theodore Samuel Williams.

The signs read, "Welcome Home. Tour the new 'Ted Williams Series' Model Homes at Citrus Hills." Some of the signs add this endorsement, "just a great place to live."

The endorsee is also a resident, having migrated to this 13-year-old community in Citrus County just a few years ago. Williams was formerly a long-time homeowner in the Florida Keys, in Islamorada. Choosing this location to live in the land of gators and golf balls was not entirely due to its proximity to good fishing waters. It helped that the owners of the Citrus Hills development were good friends Gerald Nash and Sam Tamposi, who is still a limited partner in the Boston Red Sox.

In February of 1994, the community dedicated a museum built to honor their famous neighbor amidst much fanfare. It was believed to be the first such tribute for a still living ballplayer. Babe Ruth's birthplace in Baltimore, Maryland, was converted into a historical site and museum some years ago.

The guest of honor graciously welcomed dozens of fellow baseball Hall of Famers and other celebrities in the sports and entertainment worlds to witness the ribbon cutting to the new Ted Williams Museum. Still an enemy to the necktie, and as ever more private than public in persona, Williams was nevertheless positively ebullient and engaging as he entertained guests such as Joe DiMaggio, Muhammad Ali, Bobby Orr and others.

Not 10 days later, the celebrated host was felled by a debilitating stroke, the second he had suffered in recent years. In December of 1991, he was first incapacitated, but he enjoyed a resounding recovery. The worst aftereffect was a significant loss of vision to his right eye, one-half of the tandem that was once so keen he could read a phonograph label spinning at 78 RPM. And oh, yes, eyes so sharp they helped their benefactor win six batting titles, hit 521 home runs and finish a career that spanned 21 years with a .344 lifetime average, the 6th highest ever achieved.

ANDY ESPOSITO

Now those once mighty legs on a 6'4" frame were restricted to a bed. The arms which used to surround a Louisville Slugger like a python to its prey now struggled for stabilizing rails.

When some men might have tossed in the towel and succumbed to an invalid's existence, Williams chose to display the determination and desire that always prevailed in the San Diego native. He went from the bed to a wheelchair to a walker and is now aided only by a cane. His pace has slowed, but is steadily improving.

Williams' recovery was further complicated last November, just before Thanksgiving, when a brief walk resulted in a fall which broke his left shoulder. The doctors considered an operation, but his age and other ailments precluded that treatment, and the 76-year-old legend was forced to mend the old-fashioned way, with rest and rehab.

"The doctors say his bones are healing like a 20-year-old," said John Henry Williams, Ted's son, who also serves as The Splendid Splinter's manager and business partner. The chip off the ol' splinter used to operate a sports memorabilia shop, "The Ted Williams Store," out of a mall in a Boston suburb, but has since relocated the entire operation to Citrus Hills to be close to his Dad. "Grand Slam Marketing" issues a mail-order catalog filled mostly with Williams-signed merchandise from an office near the museum.

"He's progressing very well, but he's not out of the woods yet," added The Kid's kid. "He's still a man recovering from a stroke. He should not be traveling or putting a lot of strain on his mind."

That's okay, leave the driving to us. This year's drive arrived on February 9th of this year (hmm, wonder why they picked a date with the number 9?), when the Ted Williams Museum celebrated their one-year anniversary with the dedication of two new wings, one an 80-seat theatre and one for the Ted Williams Hitters' Hall of Fame.

Williams and a team of consultants conspired to select 20 of baseball's greatest hitters, and their choices became the first inductees into the new Hitters' wing. Six of the eight living members of this new fraternity — Stan Musial, Willie Mays, Mickey Mantle, Frank Robinson, Mike Schmidt and Ralph Kiner made the journey to Hernando, the city where Citrus Hills is located, for the ceremonies.

The dedication also served as Teddy Ballgame's coming-out party, complemented by a distinguished roster of guests. The festivities were emceed by David Hartmann and Bob Costas. A total of two dozen baseball Hall of Famers applauded Williams and the inductees, including ex-Red Sox heroes Bobby Doerr, George Kell, Luis Aparicio and Ferguson Jenkins.

Williams' former outfield partner, "The Little Professor," Dominic DiMaggio, was a delightful presence at his former teammate's side, as well as other Sox alumni such as Walt Dropo and Maurice "Mickey" McDermott. Ex-Red Sox Wade Boggs and Jeff Bagwell joined Tony Gwynn at the ceremonies in a link to the modern era. Bagwell, Gwynn, Frank Thomas and Ken Griffey, Jr. were later recognized during the ceremonies with "Ted Williams Greatest Hitters' Awards," a new annual tribute which will honor current players who exemplify Williams' ideals as hitters.

At the top of the guest list were two very special friends of Williams', former President George Bush, and his wife, Barbara. The two fly-fishing buddies sat side-by-side on the stage and made no secret of their enjoyment of the proceedings, trading quips and maybe even a few fishing tips.

The host again impressed his guests with his strength and verve. The voice was still strong, as booming as a double off the Green Monster. If you close your eyes, this American hero still bears an audible similarity to another American hero, John Wayne. And when you reopen those eyes, the physical resemblance completes the picture. In fact, it was former President Bush who summed up Williams as "John Wayne in a baseball uniform."

The younger Williams agreed his father rehabs like there are runners on the corners, and the BoSox down by a pair. "It really shows how much of a worker he was, especially when he was down. He just keeps getting better and better. When he broke his shoulder, he fractured it pretty good. But he's moving it pretty good right now. You could see him raise his arm during the ceremonies. He's able to move it a lot more. I think it's all those milk shakes he had at an early age."

The rehab schedule includes three or four sessions per week, each for about 3-4 hours. The workouts put Williams through leg and upper-body exercises, and reading to strengthen the eyes. He still suffers from what is known as "tunnel vision," with little or no peripheral vision. The eyes are sound physically, but the brain is not receiving the proper signals.

Right now, Williams' brain is telling him that absolutely nothing exists to his immediate left, and there's not much happening to his right, either. "It's tough to comprehend what he sees, because we don't see that way," said John Henry.

Clearly, though, the man who was inducted into the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, NY in 1966 is a man on a mission. In an interview presented in the Dedication Program for the new wings, Williams admits he is working toward a goal. "I'll never run again, but by golly, I can go fishing. Don't think I won't go fishing again. I can sit in a boat, and I can throw a line — like that, just so far. Oh, yes, you betcha, I'll go fishing." ■

Food Friendly at Fenway

by Tom Caraccioli

"Take me out to the ball game. Take me out to the crowd. Buy me some peanuts and Cracker Jacks..."

When Jack Norworth penned those famous lines at the turn of the century before Albert Von Tilzer put music to Norworth's words, it's hard to imagine how they could've ever created the piece if they tried to do so today. Although neither man ever saw a professional baseball game before collaborating on their historical piece of Americana, the idea of peanuts and Cracker Jacks were part of the game as a special snack to enjoy while spending a couple of hours at the ballpark. Of course, that was at the turn of the century when games were played much faster and a ball game didn't interrupt dinnertime. Little could they imagine that peanuts and Cracker Jacks would, while not replaced, be only a small staple of what is now available at the concession stands at Fenway Park.

Throughout last season, the Boston Red Sox conducted consumer satisfaction surveys as part of the "Friendly Fenway" campaign. Questions regarding music at the park, convenience and comfort, overall satisfaction of the operations and concessions were just some of the areas explored.

"We were looking for a new direction when we started the "Friendly Fenway" campaign two years ago," said Red Sox Vice President of Marketing Larry Cancro. "A lot of the new direction will be focused on improving concessions. And that responsibility will be in the capable hands of new concessionaires — ARAMARK.

Fans line up for the food offerings in Pittsburgh.

While it is true that ARAMARK is new to Fenway Park, where any fan who has ever set foot in Fenway knows that Harry M. Stevens, Inc. had handled the concessions since 1916, the company has been around for 35 years under the name ARA Services. Not only is the name new, but fans expecting to see the same Fenway Franks and other familiar Fenway staples will be pleasantly surprised at what they'll find this season.

"Based on our surveys, we had a pretty good idea of the direction our fans wanted us to pursue in regards to concessions, and we've gone to great lengths in trying to accommodate the changing needs of our fans," said Cancro.

Fans will be surprised when they crave for that first Fenway Frank because they'll have a choice of the regular or jumbo frank. Or if hot dogs won't satisfy your hunger, fans will have the choice of opting for grilled chicken sandwiches, hamburgers or bratwurst. If they're more interested in something warm, especially during those early- and late-season months, New England's finest clam chowder from Legal Sea Foods also will be part of ARAMARK's new menu.

Other exciting additions that will be most visible on Yawkey Way will be portable sausage carts filling the inside of the park with the aroma of Italian sausages. Any fan who walks down Brookline Avenue from Kenmore Square when coming to a game will undeniably admit that the aroma from sausage, peppers and onions cooking is as much a part of the overall ambiance as the green grass and old-time turnstiles of the park itself.

"We want to keep the quaint aesthetics of Fenway while making it that much more an enjoyable experience for every fan who comes to see the Red Sox play," said Rich Roper, who will oversee the operations for ARAMARK.

The innovative ideas of ARAMARK are the cornerstone of their operation which includes handling concessions for Major League Baseball's Baltimore Orioles, Colorado Rockies, Atlanta Braves, Los Angeles Dodgers,

Montreal Expos, Pittsburgh Pirates, as well as a dozen other professional franchises in football, basketball and hockey. ARAMARK touches the lives of more than 15 million people every day in over 400,000 locations around the world. Keeping with the best interest of the consumer is what the employee-owned ARAMARK does best, and it is a philosophy wholeheartedly accepted by Red Sox management.

"We [Red Sox management] try hard to keep in mind the best interest of the fans," reiterated Cancro. "And when another company matches that philosophy, we're obviously pleased."

And that philosophy of giving what the fans want also will include non-alcoholic and non-carbonated beverages like: iced tea, lemonade, fruit juices, bottled water, non-alcoholic beer, hot chocolate and espresso.

And kids will have their share of choices as well with different varieties of candy, cotton candy and a kid's meal designed especially for children's appetites.

But one of the most innovative and consumer-friendly features that the Red Sox and ARAMARK have combined to develop is designed to help raise the minds of the environmentally conscientious. While the Red Sox have made efforts to improve concessions and the overall family atmosphere of Fenway Park, it also is true that management is interested in the development of a recycling program at Fenway.

The program will involve the collecting of recyclable materials used at the park. The recycling program also will encourage the participation of children and will allow kids to receive a gratuity from the Red Sox. "It's our way of saying thank you," said Roper. The winds of change are surely blowing at Fenway Park. Not only on the field but in the stands as well.

Oh, and in case you still just want peanuts, popcorn or Cracker Jacks, you can still get those too. But with all these new choices today, do you think Norworth and Von Tilzer could ever come close to expressing the sentiment of baseball like they did decades ago?

he Red Sox Radio Network will carry every game with Joe Castiglione and Jerry Trupiano handling the play-by-play. WEEI-AM in Boston begins its first season as the flagship station for a network of 60 stations throughout the New England area.

Castiglione is in his 13th season on Red Sox radio. He had previously covered the Cleveland Indians on TV in 1979 and on cable in 1982. He also broadcast the Milwaukee Brewers on cable in 1981. The Hamden, Conn. native has announced the Cleveland Cavaliers (NBA) on cable, and he did college basketball on New England Sports Network for six winters. Joe has also taught a broadcast journalism course at Northeastern University for several years.

Joining Castiglione for his third year on Red Sox radio is St. Louis native, Jerry Trupiano. Trupiano is a graduate of St. Louis University, where he began his busy broadcasting career as a disc jockey on the college radio station. Since then, Jerry has had an impressive list of broadcasting duties. He has covered boxing events, the Houston Aeros of the World Hockey Association (1974), the Houston Rockets (1978-80), Southwest Conference Football (1978-88) and the Houston Oilers (1980-89). He also hosted a talk show for 14 years in Houston. Jerry's baseball broadcasting experience includes play-by-play for the Houston Astros (1985-86) and the Montreal Expos (1989-90) as well as three games on CBS Radio Game of the Week in 1991.

The Red Sox are pleased to be broadcasting to Spanish-speaking fans once again this year on the Red Sox Hispanic Radio Network, a division of Carter Broadcasting. 1995 marks the sixth season for the network which broadcasts all Red Sox home night games. 950 WROL-AM is the network's flagship station in Boston. The games can also be heard on local radio stations in Connecticut, Providence, Lawrence and Springfield. New this season is WCRN-AM 830 in Worcester. Broadcasters Bobby Serrano and Hector Martinez return to Fenway for their sixth season of Spanish-language broadcasting.

WSBK TV38 will be carrying 75 games this season. TV38, along with its New England network, is in its 21st season of Red Sox coverage. Sean McDonough and Bob Montgomery are together for their 8th season. McDonough is regarded as one of the best in his field. In 1992 and 1993, Sean called plays for CBS Baseball's regular season as well as the All-Star Game, the League Championship and the World Series.

Bobby Serano and Hector Martinez

Sean traveled to Albertville, France and Lillehammer, Norway for CBS to cover luge and bobsled events in the '92 and '94 Olympics. Sean continues to announce a variety of sports for CBS and ESPN.

In addition, Sean served as studio host for the Red Sox on NESN, the Bruins on TV38 and the Patriots on WHDH radio. The South Boston native is a graduate of Syracuse University and began his broadcasting career with the Syracuse Chiefs of the International League (1982-84).

Bob Montgomery has been TV38's color commentator for 14 seasons. He was a catcher for the Red Sox for all of his 10-year career. Bob signed with Boston in 1962 and came to the majors in 1970. He played in 387 games including 62 for the 1975 A.L. pennant winners, before an arm injury forced his retirement during spring training in 1980. Monty did a local radio talk show as well as some work on Red Sox radio broadcasts prior to joining the TV38 team in 1982. He also announced the Red Sox on NESN for three seasons (1985-87).

This is NESN's 12th season covering Boston Red Sox baseball. Bob Kurtz and Jerry Remy team up for their third season together as NESN's Red Sox announcing team. Kurtz, a native of Detroit, Michigan, joined NESN in April of 1989 as the host of NESN's Red Sox pre- and post-game shows and as the voice of Pawtucket Red Sox baseball. Bob has also handled the play-by-play announcing duties for NESN's Hockey East coverage since 1989. Kurtz began announcing Boston Red Sox games in March of 1993. Prior to joining NESN, Bob spent eight seasons as a play-by-play announcer of the Minnesota Twins and the Minnesota North Stars.

Jerry Remy returns for his eighth season as Red Sox color man on NESN. Prior to joining NESN behind the microphone, Jerry was a crowd pleaser behind the second base bag. Jerry played 10 years in the major leagues in which he compiled a .275 lifetime batting average. The Somerset, Mass. native broke into the majors with the Angels in 1975, and was traded to the Red Sox prior to the 1978 season for pitcher Don Aase. Remy had his best season in 1978 when he batted .278, scored 78 runs and stole 30 bases. That same season he posted a career-high, 19-game hitting streak and was selected to the American League All-Star team. His playing days were cut short by a knee injury which forced his retirement during spring training in 1986.

Tom Larson serves as host for Red Sox Digest, NESN's 30-minute pre-game show, and the post-game show Instant Replay. Kim Walden returns to serve as NESN's Red Sox feature reporter. Both Larson and Walden co-host NESN's Red Sox Weekly, a 30-minute look at New England's favorite team every Saturday at noon.

For the convenience of its viewers, NESN rebroadcasts most of its games (usually the same evening at 11:30 and then again at 9:00 the next morning).

Great Voices of the Game

Diverse Group of Announcers to Call Games in TBN's Second Season

IT HAS BEEN WRITTEN ON MORE THAN ONE OCCASION THAT THE BROADCASTING OF

BASEBALL LENDS ITSELF MORE TO STORYTELLING THAN ANY OTHER SPORT IN AMERICA. TO BE SURE, MANY OF THE MOST REVERED AND IDENTIFIABLE SPORTS COMMENTATORS ACHIEVED NEAR LEGENDARY STATUS THROUGH THEIR ASSOCIATION WITH BASEBALL, INCLUDING ICONS LIKE MEL ALLEN, RED BARBER, HARRY CARAY, JACK BUCK AND VIN SCULLY, AND CONTEMPORARY PERSONALITIES LIKE BOB COSTAS, AL MICHAELS, DICK ENBERG AND TIM MCCARVER.

In that manner, The Baseball Network, the television and marketing company of Major League Baseball, will blend an intriguing collection of legendary announcers, well-known personalities and fast-rising commentators to man the broadcast booths for the second season of "Baseball Night in America."

The signature theme of The Baseball Network's on-air production of Major League Baseball, "Baseball Night in America," is the regionalized 12-week series that is set for its season debut July 15 on ABC. After a six-week run on ABC, the prime-time series switches to NBC Aug. 25 for the final six weeks of the regular season (ABC and NBC will share post-season coverage of MLB action as well).

During ABC's coverage, network announcers Al Michaels, Jim Palmer, Tim McCarver and Brent Musburger will all work each week. For NBC's regular- and post-season presentations, the broadcasting teams of Bob Costas and Bob Uecker, and Dick Enberg and Joe Morgan, will describe the on-field action.

Frequent score updates, taped highlights, feature segments and live action switches to dramatic or significant moments in other MLB games are components of "Baseball Night in America" coverage. Each network telecast will be anchored by a studio host who will serve as the on-air coordinator for the weekly presentations on The Baseball Network.

When ABC is broadcasting baseball, the anchor desk will be filled by John Saunders, while NBC's Greg Gumbel will be the studio host when the peacock network is on the air.

The bulk of the public's attention, however, will still be trained on the game announcers, who, in this most unique sport, must have the knowledge of a rules committee member, the memory of an historian, the presence of mind to speculate but not intrusively second-guess, and the ability to entertain a viewing audience in a sport where no time clock exists.

The collection of game announcers assembled by The Baseball Network for its second season includes such well-established local club broadcasters as Jon Miller, Dick Stockton, Gary Thorne, Jim Kaat, Pete Van Wieren, Ken Harrelson, Jerry Coleman, Dave Campbell, Bob Carpenter, Ken Wilson, Dave Niehaus, Bobby Murcer and Hall of Fame announcer Bob Murphy.

In addition, bright new stars like Joe Buck, Chris Wheeler, Mike Schmidt, Paul Kennedy, Keith Hernandez, Rick Cerone and Buck Martinez will work the microphones for "Baseball Night in America's" regionalized game coverage on The Baseball Network.

It's a remarkable blend of veteran stars and up-and-coming talent that should produce an interesting and distinctive sound whenever "Baseball Night in America" takes to the airwaves.

"One of our on-air goals is to ensure that viewers really enjoy the prime-time presentations, says Ken Schanzer, President and CEO of The Baseball Network. "We decided to go forward with the idea of teaming up announcers from the two participating clubs, whenever possible, on the broadcast. It's a compelling notion that could lead to some terrific pairings."

Whether it's a father-son combination, two Hall of Fame broadcasters, or two former competitors from the playing field, the announcer pairings for "Baseball Night in America" will prove lively, innovative and perhaps even trend-setting.

A perfect example of The Baseball Network strategy is when two division

That "just-baked" taste of Nissen Hotdog and Hamburger Rolls draws a hungry crowd of Yankees any time, anywhere – picnics barbecues, or right here at the ballpark.

I Would Have Liked to Have Been There...

IN ANTICIPATION OF THE 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE BASEBALL HALL OF FAME, WE ASKED THE HALL OF FAMERS AND SOME OF THE GAME'S TOP EXECUTIVES TO CONSIDER THIS QUESTION:

Which special event in baseball history have you not personally witnessed, but wish you had?

"...to have heard Lou Gehrig's farewell speech—'I consider myself the luckiest man on the face of the earth'—on Lou Gehrig Day at Yankee Stadium, July 4, 1939. He was truly the 'Iron Horse,' playing 2,130 consecutive games."

—Hank Greenberg

"...when Bill Mazeroski hit his dramatic seventh-game, ninth-inning homer to defeat the Yankees in the 1960 World Series. Pittsburgh went crazy."

—Edd Roush

"...to see Willie Mays' sensational catch off Vic Wertz in the 1954 World Series."

"...for Hank Aaron's 715th home run. A tremendous feat, and one has to admire a man staying away from sickness and injuries to play that number of years and games. To replace the great Babe Ruth who will always be known as the Home Run King of Baseball must have been a great thrill for Aaron—two great names—Ruth and Aaron—will always be remembered."

—Lou Boudreau

"...when Roger Maris hit his 61st home run on the last day of the 1961 season. The pressure in chasing Ruth's record was almost unbearable, but Maris' homer was one of the great clutch performances in baseball history."

—Ted Lyons

"...when Hank Aaron hit number 715 to break Babe Ruth's record. I had the good fortune to know Hank Aaron, to play against him and to follow his home run parade as it marched along to 715."

—Brooks Robinson

1995 Scorebook Magazine

"...when Hank Aaron hit his 715th home run. This was a milestone in baseball history. Babe Ruth had been the home run king since his retirement in 1935. In Atlanta Stadium on April 8, 1974, in the fourth inning, Aaron belted a pitch from Al Downing over the left-field fence and into the Braves' bullpen."

—Buck Leonard

"...on August 9, 1951 in St. Louis when Bill Veeck sent the midget, Eddie Gaedel, up to the plate to pinch hit for Frank Saucier. Bob Cain walked him on four pitches. This event had to be the most ingenious act that ever took place in the great game of baseball, demonstrating that some place and some time, anything can happen in a ball game."

"...for the induction of the first Hall of Fame selections—Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Walter Johnson, Honus Wagner and Christy Mathewson. This, of course, was by far the greatest Hall of Fame selection of all. Babe Ruth was the only one of the five that I played against. The others were before my time. After my playing days, I got to know Ruth, Johnson and Cobb personally. I did not have the pleasure of knowing Wagner or Mathewson. The Hall of Fame has grown tremendously since that day in 1939, and I am very proud to be a member of it."

—Rick Ferrell

"...for the induction of the first class into the Hall of Fame. Of the original five, I either played with or against three of them—Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth and Walter Johnson."

—Joe Sewell

"...when Mickey Mantle homered off the facade at Yankee Stadium. I don't think I ever saw one hit that far. It came the closest to being the only fair ball ever hit out of Yankee Stadium."

—Ted Williams

"And you remember too, the men who taught you and who helped you, and you realize that this is what the game is all about—one man passing along his advice and his insights to the next. This is what helps make baseball a tradition, along with the memories and the base hits and all the marvelous things that take place out on that field."

—Tommy Holmes

...when Bobby Thomson hit the home run in 1951 to win the pennant for the New York Giants. It shows the players and fans that anything can happen in sports.

Never say die. There is always hope, no matter how depressing and discouraged one may be. Keep trying until the final out. It made Ralph Branca an instant celebrity as well as Bobby Thomson."

—Bob Feller

"...to see Babe Ruth play as a pitcher as well as a hitter. I think Ruth was the greatest player of all time."

—Charlie Gehring

"...when Babe Ruth is said to have pointed to the center-field bleachers in the 1932 World Series at Wrigley Field prior to hitting a home run. I would like to be able to make up my own mind if he really did point."

—Pee Wee Reese

BABE RUTH

"...to see Babe Ruth's famous home run. I had heard and read about the Babe's home run that he called and always wished I had seen it. So one day when we (the Yankees) were playing the Detroit Tigers in Detroit I said to myself, 'I always hit good in this park. Why can't I do it just like the Babe?' So I came up to bat and turned around to Mel Allen in the broadcast booth and pointed toward the stands. Sure enough, out it went. It sure was a thrill, but it was more of a fun thing for me than the Babe's situation. His home run hit under pressure and at such a dramatic moment has always fascinated me."

—Yogi Berra

"...for the 1932 World Series with the Cubs vs. the Yankees where Babe Ruth had his 'called shot' home run. There is so much controversy over this home run. Did he or didn't he really point? Many people like Joe Sewell, etc. say he did; but many others claim he did not. To this day no one will ever know except Babe Ruth. I wish I had been there to see for myself."

—Ray Dandridge

"...to see Babe Ruth hit his 60th home run. Ruth and I were teammates for a few years after this event. Knowing him and playing with him gave a certain prestige to the game. He was a colorful player and a great asset to the game. To know baseball you always associate it with Ruth. There will never be another Babe Ruth."

FIGURING BASEBALL STATISTICS

BATTING AVERAGE

Divide the total number of hits (H) by the total times at bat (AB).

EARNED RUN AVERAGE

Multiply the total earned runs (ER) by 9, and divide the result by the total number of innings pitched (IP).

$$ERA = \frac{ER \times 9}{IP}$$

Note: When there is a fraction of an inning pitched, such as 50.1 innings pitched, .1 means 1/3 (.33) in baseball statistics. Also, .2 means 2/3 (.66). So, to figure out the correct earned run average, divide by 50.33 or by 50.67. Since there are 3 outs per inning, .1 inning pitched means the pitcher only got 1 batter out in the inning.

It's Easy to Keep Score!

Baseball Shorthand is used by the news media to render every game more enjoyable to baseball enthusiasts. All players are numbered and all plays recorded by symbols. For symbols and examples of the system, see below.

The lower left-hand corner of the scoring block should be considered as home plate. Progress is counter-clockwise with progress to first base indicated in lower right-hand corner, to second in upper right-hand corner, to third in upper left-hand corner and to home in lower left. In example to left, batter reached first on an error by the second baseman, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on a passed ball. It is convenient to shade the diamond as shown so that scoring plays may be seen at a glance.

FENWAY PARK GROUND RULES

rivals square off for a late-season encounter. The Baseball Network plan is to telecast the game in the TV markets of the two competing teams, while engaging one announcer from each club to describe the nine innings of action.

Among the advantages of this unique plan is enabling baseball viewers to sample broadcasters from other teams and regions of the country. For the participating announcers, it's an intriguing opportunity to work with a broadcasting colleague from another club, and, in some cases, with a legend whom they've admired from a distance.

From the baseball fan's point of view, listening to the announcers who will appear on the "Baseball Night in America" series will resemble the closest thing to an All-Star Team of broadcasters.

TRIPLE PLAYS

On July 8, 1994 in Fenway Park, SS JOHN VALENTIN made an unassisted triple play (9th in regular-season M.L. history, 10th overall) in the 6th inning vs. Seattle. (1B George Burns 9/14/23 vs. Clev. is the only other SOX to do so). With Mike Blowers on 2nd base and Keith Mitchell on 1st, Marc Newfield hit a line drive to VALENTIN, who then tagged 2nd to retire Blowers and also tagged Mitchell out between 1st and 2nd to complete the rare play. Ironically, VALENTIN led off the bottom of the inning with the SOX trailing 2-0. He hit a 3-2 pitch off LH Dave Fleming into the LF net for a HR, only the 2nd of the 10 to hit a HR in the same inning in which he made the TP (SS Neal Ball, Clev. vs. SOX, 7/19/09, the other). The SOX scored four times in the 6th and then held on for an exciting 4-3 win before 33,355. It was the SOX first triple play since 7/28/79, when they tied the Major League record by making three that year. Those were the first SOX triple plays since 5/25/72 vs. the Orioles in Fenway Park. The 1979 record-tying triple plays were:

Date	Opponent	Batter	Inning	How
5/10	Angels	Rudi	7	Pop in short RF to Remy (2B), to Burleson (SS) to Scott (1B)
7/23	Angels	Aikens	8	Liner to Burleson (SS), tagged 2B, threw to Yaz (1B)
7/28	at Texas	Oliver	1	1st and 3rd, pop in short RF to Brohamer (2B), to Watson (1B) to Hobson (3B)

On July 17, 1990 in Fenway Park vs. Minnesota the RED SOX became the first major league team to hit into two triple plays in the same game. In fact it is the only game in major league history to have two triple plays. In the 4th inning, with the bases loaded, TOM BRUNANSKY grounded to 3B Gary Gaetti, who stepped on 3rd, then threw to 2B Al Newman who relayed to 1B Kent Hrbek to complete the 3 outs. In the 8th inning, with runners on 1st and 2nd, JODY REED grounded to Gaetti, who stepped on 3rd to start another Newman to Hrbek triple-play relay. In spite of the history-making event, the Red Sox won the game 1-0.

Prior to 1990 the last one against the RED SOX was 7/4/88 in Kansas City. JIM RICE flied out to Willie Wilson in CF, who threw to 2B Frank White to double up MIKE GREENWELL. White then threw to 1B George Brett to get ELLIS BURKS. Prior to that the last one was 9/4/65 in N.Y. BOB TILLMAN grounded to Clete Boyer at 3B, who started a 5-4-3 DP with Bobby Richardson and Joe Pepitone. Pepitone then threw back to Boyer to get TONY CONIGLIARO at third. (Information taken from the 1995 Red Sox Media Guide.)

where the New York Yankees were playing their home games while Yankee Stadium was being remodeled. Lynn, who was only 3 for 16 with six strikeouts, singled off Pat Dobson to open the game and scored on a Yaz homer. Lynn then slammed homers in the third and fifth innings as Wise went the distance in the 4-2 Red Sox victory.

Two days later, back in Boston, Rice homered in his first two at-bats — his first homers of the season — off Grimsley, and Lynn also homered as the Red Sox held on for a 9-7 win over Baltimore. The Red Sox opened the season with six wins in their first nine games, but they would then lose six of the next seven.

On April 23, the Red Sox, beaten by the Yankees 12-1 and 5-0 in the first two games, trailed 7-3 in the seventh inning of the third. But RBI singles by Lynn and Rice off Sparky Lyle and a two-run double by Montgomery off Dick Tidrow highlighted a five-run rally that put the Red Sox ahead 8-7. Lynn's bases-loaded double in the eighth off southpaw Larry Gura provided the final three runs in the Sox' 11-7 win, their only victory in the stretch.

Two days later, Tiant lost a two-hitter to Mickey Lolich in Detroit as Danny Meyer's fifth-inning homer accounted for the only run in the 1-0 Tigers victory, and the Red Sox also lost the next two games to the Tigers by one run and finished April with a 7-9 record.

But the Red Sox opened the month of May by winning six straight.

Rice's fifth-inning homer off Jim Perry proved the difference as the Red Sox held off Cleveland for a 7-6 win at Fenway. Diego Segui fanned pinch hitter Leron Lee for the final out with the tying run at third.

Following a 12-2 rout of the Tigers at Fenway, the Red Sox swept three games from the Indians in Cleveland. Consecutive doubles by Lynn, Rice and Rico Petrocelli off Jim Perry wiped out a 2-0 deficit in the fourth inning and sparked the Sox to a 7-5 win on May 5. Bill Lee pitched a six-hitter in a 4-1 win the following day, and Rice's sixth-inning homer off Fritz Peterson snapped a 1-1 deadlock and powered the Sox to a 4-2 win in the final game of the series.

The Red Sox then made their first West Coast swing of the season. Wise tossed a three-hitter, losing his shutout with two outs in the ninth on a Mickey Rivers homer, as the Red Sox beat the Angels 4-1 in Anaheim for their sixth straight win. But Frank Tanana ended the streak the next day, outdueling the hard-luck Tiant 2-0 in matching four-hitters while striking out 13.

The Red Sox bounced back the following day as Rice homered in a 5-2 win and Lee hurled a seven-hitter. But they lost two games to the three-time defending World Champion A's in Oakland, then returned to Fenway to lose three more in a row to the Kansas City Royals.

Steve Busby beat them 3-0 with a four-hitter in the opener, and the erratic Sox got only five more hits in a 5-2 loss to Dennis Leonard the following night. A 5-3 loss to the Royals on May 17 was their sixth in seven games and left them with a 14-15 record, four games behind the first-place Milwaukee Brewers in the American League East.

But their erratic days were behind them. On May 18 Wise would stop the slide with a six-hitter, and Bernie Carbo would drive in all the runs with a pair of homers in a 4-2 win over the Royals. From that day on, the Red Sox would seize control of the race and go on to win their first pennant in eight years and meet the Cincinnati Reds in one of the most electrifying World Series in history. ■

The Jimmy Fund and The Boston Red Sox Help Us Continue The Progress...

Philip Doyle and Kate Shaughnessy pitched the first ball at the 1994 Kid's Opening Day at Fenway Park. These two baseball fans are patients at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute's Jimmy Fund Clinic: eight-year-old Kate is currently undergoing treatment for ALL (acute lymphocytic leukemia); seven-year-old Philip has been in remission for the same disease for more than a year.

Dana-Farber battles cancer the same way the Red Sox face their opponent — as a team. Each adult or pediatric patient benefits from the expertise of a physician, nurse, psychologist, and social worker... all working together to meet their needs.

For more than 40 years, the generosity of the Red Sox has made a tremendous difference to the lives of Jimmy Fund Clinic patients like Kate and Philip. Join a winning team by calling (800) 253-6667 to learn about the Jimmy Fund or Dana-Farber's treatment programs.

"...when Joe DiMaggio hit safely in 56 consecutive games. I think it will be one of the hardest of all records to beat. And also, I have been a Joe D. fan since I was nine or ten growing up in New York City."

—Whitey Ford

"...when Bill Wambsganss made an unassisted triple play in the 1920 World Series—the only unassisted triple play in World Series history."

—Robin Roberts

"...to see Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig play. I was always in awe of their accomplishments. In Game 3 of the 1964 World Series against the Cardinals, I had the good fortune to hit a home run in the ninth inning off Barney Schultz that not only won the game but also broke Ruth's record of 15 World Series homers."

—Mickey Mantle

"...when Pee Wee Reese wrapped an arm around the shoulders of Jackie Robinson in a show of support and respect for a friend and teammate. Robinson was being harassed by the opposing team. That moment to me is a perfect illustration of what baseball is all about."

—Peter Ueberroth

"...to have played in a winning World Series. I played in the 1946 series, but that was not a winning series for me. As I get older it is the one achievement that gets more important."

—Bobby Doerr

"...for the opening game of the 1929 World Series, Philadelphia Athletics vs. the Chicago Cubs. Howard Ehmke of Connie Mack's Athletics won the game, 3-1, and established a new World Series record of 13 strikeouts in one game, smashing the 23-year-old record of 12, held by Ed Walsh since 1906. I think it was one of the greatest pitching feats in World Series history. The victory came from Ehmke's ability and his desire to win. 'Mr. Mack, I have one more good game in my arm for October;' and, Connie Mack's belief in Ehmke that the aging righthander about to be let go from the A's pitching staff would come through with a World Series win for the Athletics. When Mack waved Ehmke onto the mound as the opening starter, it was one of the biggest surprises in baseball's World Series play. The 50,000 fans, sportswriters and even his own players thought Mack had made a bad choice. Ehmke hadn't pitched for two months. Mack had Grove, Malone, Earnshaw and Walberg as ace starters to go up against Hornsby and the rest of the Cubs' powerful batting lineup. But Connie Mack wanted to win this series, his last championship having been in 1913. Even with Simmons, Cochrane and Foxx in his 1929 lineup, Mack knew he needed a surprise attack advantage to stop Joe McCarthy's Cubs who had cinched the N.L. pennant on July 24th. Mack saw his chance with Ehmke. He told Ehmke, 'You'll start the series, keep it a secret, rest two months and study the Cubs' hitters carefully.' When Ehmke came through with a 3-1 win, the Cubs were stunned and said 'if Ehmke struck out 13 of our men, what can we do against Grove, Malone, Earnshaw and Walberg?' Connie Mack's Athletics went on to win the series, four games to one."

—Lefty Gomez

"...when Carl Hubbell struck out Ruth, Gehrig, Foxx, Simmons and Cronin in succession in the 1934 All-Star Game. Later I had to hit against Carl when I was with the Cardinals, and I also played on the same team with him. What he did was no fluke—he was SUPER."

—Johnny Mize

"...when Willie Mays hit four home runs in Milwaukee. He had a very bad cold and wasn't expected to play but made up his mind at the last moment to do so. I never hit four home runs in a game in the majors but wished many times I had. It's a great feat, and it must have been very thrilling to have done it."

—Monte Irvin

"...for Ted Williams' last at-bat. I was riding to the ballpark and heard his home run on the car radio. What a way to close out one's career!"

—Harmon Killebrew

"...to watch the first major league game played by Jackie Robinson."

—Joe Morgan

"...Jim Bunning's perfect game."

—Happy Chandler

"...to have seen Roger Maris' 61st home run."

—Rollie Fingers

I wish I had seen the ineffable Christy Mathewson pitch three shutout games in the World Series of 1905 when the New York Giants beat the Philadelphia Athletics. Mathewson's record during that 153-game season was 31-9; the three World Series shutouts were all pitched in a six-day period. Matty went all nine innings each time. On October 9 he allowed only four hits, walked none, struck out six, began the Giants' fifth-inning, two-run rally with a single and recorded a sacrifice in the ninth. The Giants won, 3-0. On October 12, Matty again allowed only four hits, walked one and struck out eight. The Giants won 9-0. On October 14, the fifth game, the clincher. Matty gave up six hits, walked none and struck out four on one day's rest. The Giants won 2-0. Oh, to have been there and to have heard the crowd of 24,000 at Coogan's Bluff, to have seen McGraw's face as that tall, elegant figure, in the prime of his life, made himself immortal and permanently enriched America's imagination."*

Introducing Gillette SensorExcel

With soft, flexible microfins for the closest shave ever.

Gillette brings you SensorExcel™, the next revolution in shaving closeness.

We started with Sensor's spring-mounted twin blades that adjust to your face.

Then we developed a remarkable innovation called microfins and placed them ahead of the blades. These soft flexible fins gently stretch your skin, causing your beard to spring upward so the blades can shave you closer, with more comfort.

SensorExcel's responsive Flexgrip™ handle and unique pivoting action give you superior maneuverability and control.

The result is the closest, most comfortable shave you've ever experienced. Get Gillette SensorExcel. And get closer than ever before.
